SECTION 2.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

The designation "U.S. Cl." appearing in this section refers to the U.S. class in effect prior to Sep. 1, 1973 rather than the international class which applies to applications filed on or after that date. For adoption of international classification see notice in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Jun. 26, 1973 (911 O.G. TM 210).

Patent Cooperation Treaty Update
Accession by China

The United States Patent and Trademark Office received notification from the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) that China deposited its instrument of accession to the Patent Cooperation Treaty (PCT) on October 1, 1993. China will become the 61st Contracting State of the PCT on January 1, 1994. Consequently, nationals and residents of China are entitled to file international applications on and after January 1, 1994, and from the same date it is possible to file International applications designating and electing China.

In connection with China's accession, the Chinese Patent Office has been appointed as an international Searching Authority and International Preliminary Examining Authority. Accordingly, the Chinese Patent Office will establish international search and preliminary examination reports for international applications filed by Chinese residents or nationals with the Chinese Patent Office as the receiving Office. Futhermore, upon China's accession the Chinese language becomes a filing and publication language under the PCT. The two-letter country code for China is "CN".

1993 Patent Examiner's Action Survey

As part of the continuing quality reinforcement efforts of the Patent and Trademark Office, the Office will be sending out a Patent Action Survey Form with each Patent Examiner's Office action mailed during a period of several weeks during December, 1993-January, 1994.

The survey is intended to determine whether Office actions are perceived to be clear and complete on certain specific and important items related to patent examining practices and procedures. The results of the survey will be used in the development of Office training programs. The survey is a follow-up to the Patent Action Surveys conducted in 1991 and 1992. Where training is provided to address identified deficiences in performance, follow-up surveys are intended to be conducted in the future to determine whether the training was effective enough to improve performance in the measured areas.

The Survey Form is brief and easy to complete and does not permit identification of the respondent or of the particular application involved. The Survey Form may be completed at the time of response to the Office Action. It is possible that a practitioner may receive many Office Actions containing a Survey Form during the survey period. To have results that are meaningful, the Office needs a high response rate. Therefore, it is important that patent practitioners complete each survey form no later than the time of response to the Office action being surveyed. To assure that this form is completed and mailed back to the address indicated on the Survey Form, it would be desirable for the patent practitioners to have their office managers/docketing personnel take appropriate steps to keep the form and Office action together for the practitioner's benefit.

Your cooperation in completing the Survey Form is appreciated.

Changes in Signature and Filing Requirements for Correspondence Filed in the Patent and Trademark Office

Agency: Patent and Trademark Office, Commerce.
Action: Final Rule.
Summary: The Patent and Trademark Office (Office) is amending the rules of practice in patent and trademark cases to: specify the types of correspondence which will no longer require original signatures; provide for facsimile transmission of certain correspondence to the Office; discontinue use of the drop boxes at Crystal Plaza Building 3 and at the Department of Commerce Building in Washington, D.C.; and clarify other provisions with respect to practice before the Office.
Effective Date: November 22, 1993. These rules will be applicable to all correspondence filed with the Office on or after the effective date.
For Further Information Contact: Abraham Hershkovitz by telephone at (703) 305-9282, by facsimile transmission at (703) 305-8825, or by mail marked to his attention and addressed to Office of the Assistant Commissioner for Patents, Box DAC, Washington, D.C. 20231.
Supplementary Information: In a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking published in the Federal Register at 57 FR 36034 (August 12, 1992) and in the Patent and Trademark Office Official Gazette at 1142 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 8-13 (September 1, 1992), the Office proposed to amend the rules of practice in patent and trademark cases to simplify the manner in which correspondence may be transmitted to the Office and clarify other provisions with respect to practice before the Office. This rulemaking includes changes to expand those situations where a party can use the Certificate of Mailing or Transmission procedure, and minor technical modifications in Part 2 of Title 37 of the Code of Federal Regulations which were not part of the proposed rulemaking. This rule making also expands the acceptability of facsimile transmissions to certain trademark documents which were not part of the proposed rulemaking.
Written comments were submitted by twenty-two law firms, five individuals, nine corporations, two organizations and three agencies. An oral hearing was not conducted.
The following includes a discussion of the rules being changed and the reasons for those changes, and an analysis of the comments received in response to the notice of proposed rulemaking.

Discussion of Specific Sections to be Changed or Added:

(1) Types of Correspondence No longer Requiring Original Signatures (Section 1.4)

Section 1.4 is amended to include a new paragraph (d) to specify that most correspondence filed in the Office, which requires a person's signature, may be an original, or a copy thereof. See §§ 1.4 (e) and (f) for types of correspondence where the original must be filed in the Office. The word original, as used in this rulemaking, is defined as correspondence which is personally signed in permanent ink by the person whose signature appears thereon. Where copies of correspondence are acceptable, photocopies or facsimile transmissions may be filed. For example, a photocopy or facsimile transmission of an original of an amendment, declaration, petition, issue fee transmittal form, authorization to charge a deposit account, etc., may be submitted in a patent or trademark application. Furthermore, where copies are permitted, second and further generation copies (i.e., copy of a copy) are acceptable. The original, if not submitted to the Office, should be retained as evidence of proper execution in the event that questions arise as to the authenticity of the signature reproduced on the photocopy or facsimile-transmitted correspondence. If a question of authenticity arises, the Office may require submission of the original.

Section 1.4(e) identifies types of correspondence in which an original must be submitted to the Office. Where an original is required, copies are not acceptable and will not be accorded a receipt date. Correspondence, as referred to in this section, includes application forms for registration to practice before the Office and data sheets for the register of patent attorneys and agents.

Section 1.4(f) provides that when a document that is required by statute to be certified must be filed (such as a certified copy of a foreign patent application, pursuant to 35 U.S.C. 119; a certified copy of an international application, pursuant to 35 U.S.C. 365; a certified copy of a foreign trademark registration, pursuant to 15 U.S.C. 1126(e); a certified copy of a final court order, pursuant to 15 U.S.C. 1119; or a certified copy of a U.S. trademark registration), a copy of the certification, including a photocopy or facsimile transmission, will not be acceptable. The requirement for an original certification does not apply to certifications such as required under §§ 1.8, 1.10, 1.60, 1.97(e) and 3.73(b), since these certifications are not required by statute.

(2) Identification of Applications (Section 1.5) Section 1.5(a) is amended to make reference to the certificate procedure under § 1.8 consistent with the new title for § 1.8.

(3) Receipt of Correspondence (Section 1.6)

A descriptive heading is added to each paragraph of § 1.6 to identify the content of that paragraph.

The phrase "correspondence" is used in § 1.6 since the terms "papers", "letters" and "fees" all fall within the generic definition of "correspondence".

Section 1.6(a) is amended to clarify that correspondence transmitted by facsimile on weekends or Federal holidays within the District of Columbia, will be accorded the next business day as the date of receipt.

Sections 1.6 (b) and (c) are amended to clarify that weekdays refer to any day except a Saturday, Sunday, or Federal holiday within the District of Columbia.

Section 1.6(c) is amended to delete reference to the box locations in the lobby of Crystal Plaza Building 3, Arlington, Virginia, and at the Department of Commerce Building in Washington, D.C. The use of the drop boxes was discontinued on April 21, 1992, and the hours of operation for the attorney's window were extended to midnight, the same hours the drop boxes were available. The public can now deposit correspondence with the Office and obtain an acknowledgment of receipt after normal business hours. See "Changes in How Papers May Be Filed in the Patent and Trademark Office", 1137 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 7 (April 7, 1992).

Use of the drop boxes at Crystal Plaza Building 3 and Department of Commerce Building locations had caused problems for both the public and the Office. Occasionally, it had been difficult to determine the dates of actual deposit of correspondence in the boxes. On occasion, Office employees and/or members of the public had been denied access to the drop box at the Department of Commerce by building security guards due to a special event taking place at the Department. Additionally, there were instances of correspondence being found outside of the drop boxes (e.g., on the floor of the main lobby of the Department of Commerce Building, on the guard's desk, on a nearby table, etc.). As a result, on occasion, the Office lacked confidence in assigning correct dates of receipt to correspondence deposited in the boxes at Crystal Plaza Building 3 and at the Department of Commerce Building. Given these difficulties, and the fact that the necessity for these boxes has been greatly diminished as a result of the facsimile transmission and certificate of mailing procedures, § 1.6(c) is amended by deleting reference to the drop boxes at Crystal Plaza Building 3 and the Department of Commerce Building.

A new section 1.6(d) is added to specify the types of correspondence which may be transmitted by facsimile and former § 1.6(d) is revised to be consistent with § 1.8(b) and redesignated as § 1.6(e). The widespread use of facsimile transmission and the resulting time saved in correspondence between applicants and the Office prompted the Office to establish a trial program to accept facsimile transmission of certain correspondence. The policy on "Filing of Certain Papers and Authorizations to Charge Deposit Accounts by Facsimile Transmission" was published at 1096 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 30 (November 15, 1988) and was supplemented in the notice "Filing of Certain Papers with the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences by Facsimile Transmission" published at 1108 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 15 (November 14, 1989). The policy on "Filing of Certain Trademark Papers and Authorizations to Charge Deposit Accounts by Facsimile Transmission" was published at 1123 Off. Gaz. TM. Office 18 (February 12, 1991). In light of the success of the trial program, a policy on acceptance of facsimile transmission is incorporated into § 1.6(d). The situations where transmission of correspondence by facsimile is permitted have been increased over those permissible under the trial program outlined above. The situations where transmissions by facsimile remain prohibited are identified in § 1.6(d)(1)-(9). Prohibitions cover situations where originals are required as specified in §§ 1.4 (e) and (f), and situations where accepting a facsimile transmission would be unduly burdensome on the Office. As a courtesy, the Office will attempt to notify senders whenever correspondence is sent to the Office by facsimile transmission that falls within one of these prohibitions. Senders are cautioned against submitting correspondence by facsimile transmission which is not permitted under § 1.6(d) since such correspondence will not be accorded a receipt date.

This final rulemaking expands the acceptability of facsimile transmission to certain patent interference proceedings, not included in the proposed rulemaking, to reflect the practice set forth at 1108 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 15 (November 14, 1989). This final rulemaking also expands the acceptability of facsimile transmission to certain trademark documents, not include in the proposed rulemaking. These addditional documents are:

(1) An affidavit showing that a mark is still in use or containing an excuse for nonuse under section 8 (a) or (b) or section 12(c) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1058(a), 1058(b), 1062(c);

(2) An application for renewal of a registration under section 9 of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1059;

(3) In an application under section 1(b) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1051(b), the filing of an amendment to allege use in commerce under section 1(c) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1051(c); or the filing of a statement of use under section 1(d)(1) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1051(d)(1).

The Certificate of Mailing or Transmission provisions of § 1.8 do not apply to correspondence listed in (1)-(3) above, nor to the filing of correspondence in an international application before the U.S. Receiving Office, the U.S. International Searching Authority, or the U.S. International Preliminary Examining Authority or to the filing, in an application under section 1(b) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1051(b), of a request under section 1(d)(2) of the Trademark act, 15 U.S.C. 1051 (d)(2), for an extension of time to file a statement of use under section 1(d)(1) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1051 (d)(1). See § 1.8(a)(2)(i)(E) and 1.8 (a)(2)(ii)(B), (C), (E) and (F). If the transmission of any of these documents is completed after midnight (Eastern time) of the due date, the papers are untimely.

Under § 1.6(d)(4) as adopted in this final rulemaking, drawings submitted under §§ 1.81, 1.83-1.85, 1.152, 1.165, 1.174, 1.437, or 2.21 may not be filed by facsimile in patent and trademark applications. The experience of the Office is that the quality of the drawings received by facsimile transmission is generally not sufficient to comply with the drawing requirements set forth in these rules. However, applicants may submit by facsimile transmission proposed drawing corrections for approval by the Office.

In trademark proceedings, the facsimile transmission of specimens in response to an Office action will be permitted. Facsimile-transmitted specimens must be legible in order to be accepted and examined as specimens. This final rulemaking also expands the acceptability of specimens filed in conjunction with amendments to allege use under section 1(c); statements of use under section 1(d); affidavits of use or excusable nonuse under section 8 (a) or (b) or 12(c); and applications for renewal under section 9 of the Trademark Act. 15 U.S.C. 1051 (c) and (d); 1058 (a) and (b); 1062(c) and 1059.

The date of receipt accorded to any correspondence permitted to be sent by facsimile transmission is the date the complete transmission is received by an Office facsimile unit, unless the transmission is completed on a Saturday, Sunday, or Federal holiday within the District of Columbia. Correspondence for which transmission was completed on a Saturday, Sunday, or Federal holiday within the District of Columbia, will be accorded a receipt date of the next succeeding day which is not a Saturday, Sunday, or Federal holiday within the District of Columbia. For example, a facsimile transmission to the Office from California starting on a Friday at 8:45 p.m. Pacific time and taking 20 minutes, would be completed at 9:05 p.m. Pacific time. The complete transmission would be received in the Office around 12:05 a.m. Eastern time on Saturday. The receipt date accorded to the correspondence is the date of the following business day, which in this case, would be Monday (assuming that Monday was not a Federal holiday within the District of Columbia).

The following lists itemize types of correspondence which may not be filed by facsimile transmission, and, if submitted by facsimile, will not be accorded a date of receipt:

Correspondence Relative to Patents and Patent Applications Where Filing by Facsimile Transmission is Not permitted

(1) A document that is required by statute to be certified;

(2) A national patent application specification and drawing or other correspondence for the purpose of obtaining an application filing date;

(4) Correspondence in an interference which an examiner-in-chief orders to be filed by hand or "Express Mail";

(5) Agreements between parties to an interference under 35 U.S.C. 135(c);

(6) Correspondence to be filed in an interference proceeding which consists of a preliminary statement under § 1.621; a transcript of a deposition under § 1.676 or of interrogatories, cross-interrogatories, or recorded answers under § 1.684(c); or an evidentiary record and exhibits under § 1.653;

(7) Correspondence to be filed in a patent application subject to a secrecy order under §§ 5.1-5.8 of this chapter and directly related to the secrecy order content of the application;

(10) A request for reexamination under § 1.510.

Correspondence Relative to Trademark Registrations and Trademark Applications Where Filing by Facsimile Transmission is Not Permitted

(1) The filing of a trademark application;

(2) Drawings submitted under § 2.21;

(4) Request for cancellation or amendment of a registration under section 7(e) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1057(e); and certificates of registration surrendered for cancellation or amendment under section 7(e) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1057(e);

(5) Correspondence to be filed with the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board, except the notice of ex parte appeal.

Correspondence Relative to Practitioner Registrations, Investigations, and Disciplinary Proceedings Where Filing by Facsimile Transmission is Not Permitted

Correspondence requiring a person's signature and relating to:

(1) Registration to practice before the Patent and Trademark Office in patent cases;

(2) Enrollment and disciplinary investigations; or

(3) Disciplinary proceedings.

(4) Certificate of Mailing or Transmission Procedure (Section 1.8)

The title of § 1.8 is changed from Certificate of Mailing to Certificate of Mailing or Transmission so as to include facsimile transmission.

Section 1.8(a) prescribes procedures for the use of a certificate of mailing or transmission to file papers or fees in the Office by first class mail or by facsimile transmission. The description of the Certificate of Mailing or Transmission practice is set forth in § 1.8(a)(1), and the list of exceptions to the certificate practice is found in § 1.8(a)(2). The phrase "papers or fees" in § 1.8(a) is changed to "correspondence" since both "papers" and "fees" fall within the generic definition of "correspondence". Paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 1.8 are amended to include correspondence transmitted by facsimile. In the event that correspondence is filed by facsimile transmission, it is recommended that the sending facsimile machine generate a report confirming transmission for each transmission session. This report should be retained by the applicant, along with the correspondence used as the original, as evidence of content and date of transmission. Paragraph (a)(2) of § 1.8 is amended to include separate headings for correspondence which relate to patents, trademarks and disciplinary proceedings. The sequence of some of the paragraphs found in § 1.8(a)(2) has been changed in order to have those paragraphs listed under the appropriate heading. The ability to use the Certificate of Mailing or Transmission procedures has been expanded to the filing of an affidavit under section 15, subsection (3) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1065(3), the filing of a notice of election to proceed by civil action in an inter partes proceeding under 35 U.S.C. 141 or 15 U.S.C. 1071(a)(1), in response to another party's appeal to the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, the filing of a notice and reasons of appeal under 35 U. S.C. 142 or a notice of appeal under 15 U.S.C. 1071(a)(2), and the filing of a statement under 42 U.S.C. 2182 or 42 U.S.C. 2457(c).

Paragraph (a)(2)(vi) of § 1.8 is redesignated as paragraph (a)(2)(x) and amended to refer to section 14(1) or 14(2) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1064, to conform with the numbering of the Trademark Law Revision Act of 1988. Other sections of paragraph (a)(2) of § 1.8 are amended to identify the types of correspondence which will not receive the benefit of a certificate of mailing or transmission.

Paragraph (b) of § 1.8 outlines procedures to be followed to document the timely filing of correspondence in accordance with § 1.8(a) where such correspondence is not received by the Office. The phrase "correspondence or fees" in § 1.8(b) is changed to "correspondence" since "fees" fall within the generic definition of "correspondence". Before adoption of this final rule, § 1.8(b) required that the party forwarding the correspondence or fee include a declaration, under §§ 1.68 or 2.20 of this chapter, attesting to the previous timely mailing or transmission. In order to be consistent with other sections in Parts 1 and 2 of this chapter, the practice under § 1.8(b) is amended to permit a practitioner, as defined in § 10.1(r), to submit a statement rather than an oath or declaration under §§ 1.68 or 2.20 of this chapter. New paragraph (c) of § 1.8 is added to explicitly provide for a requirement for additional evidence relating to the mailing or transmission of correspondence in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section. The Office may invoke this requirement when it is deemed appropriate to establish an actual date of mailing or transmission. See, e.g., In re Klein, 6 USPQ2d 1547 (Comm'r Pat. 1987), aff'd sub nom. Klein v. Peterson, 696 F. Supp. 695, 8 USPQ2d 1434 (D.D.C. 1988), aff'd 866 F.2d 412, 9 USPQ2d 1558 (Fed. Cir.), cert. denied, 490 U.S. 1091 (1989).

(5) Time for Appeal or Civil Action (Section 1.304)

In section 1.304, paragraphs (a) and (c) are amended to delete a statement that use of the certificate procedure under § 1.8 is prohibited so as to be consistent with changes to § 1.8. Also, a cross reference to 1.658 in paragraph (a) is clarified.

(6) Submission of Maintenance Fees (Section 1.366)

Section 1.366(b) is amended by deleting the words "of mailing" to conform with the new title for § 1.8.

(7) Filing Date of Application for Extension of Patent Term Section 1.741(a)

Section 1.741(a) is amended to conform with the new title for the certificate procedure under § 1.8.

(8) Appeal to Court and Civil Action (Section 2.145)

Sections 2.145(c)(3) and 2.145(d)(1) are amended to conform with the revised list of types of correspondence excluded from the certificate of mailing or transmission procedure set out in § 1.8. Formerly, the notice of election to proceed by civil action in an inter partes proceeding under 35 U.S.C. 141 or section 21(a)(1) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1071(a)(1), and the filing of notice and reasons of appeal under 35 U.S.C. 142 or a notice of appeal under section 21(a)(2) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1071(a)(2), were specifically excluded, under §§ 1.8(a)(2)(viii) and (ix), respectively, from the certificate of mailing procedure. Since these notices are no longer excluded under amended § 1.8(a)(2), sections 2.145(c)(3) and 2.145(d)(1) are amended to conform with § 1.8 by deleting the last sentence which provided that the certificate of mailing procedure was not available.

(9) Reconsideration of Affidavit or Declaration (Section 2.165)
Section 2.165(a)(1) is amended to refer to the new title for the certificate procedure under § 1.8 of this chapter.

(10) Signature and Certificate of Practitioner (Section 10.18)
Section 10.18 is modified to clarify signature requirements for correspondence signed by practitioners. The reference to § 1.4 of this chapter will make it apparent that copies, including photocopies or facsimile transmissions, of correspondence signed by practitioners will be accepted under appropriate circumstances.
(11) Misconduct (Section 10.23(c))
S ection 10.23(c) is amended to refer to the new title for the certificate procedure under § 1.8 of this chapter.

Response to Comments on the Rules

The comments received in response to the notice of proposed rulemaking have been given careful consideration and a number of the suggested modifications have been adopted. The comments and responses are discussed below.

Comment: In order to clarify how the Office will treat a copy of a paper, one comment suggested changing the second sentence in proposed § 1.4(d) to indicate that, except as provided in §§ 1.4(e) and (f), a copy would be treated by the Office as if the original had been filed.

Response: While the suggested language was not adopted, the rule was modified to clarify that, except as provided in §§ 1.4(e) and (f), an original or a copy thereof may be filed. The rules as stated in this final rulemaking are clear that, where an original is not required, a paper filed will be treated in the same way regardless of whether it is an original or a copy.

Comment: Five comments objected to a perceived requirement in § 1.4(d) that the color of ink used for signing a paper be different from the printing on the paper.

Response: Proposed § 1.4(d) did not require that the color of ink used for signing a paper be different from the printing on the paper. The suggested use of different colors of ink is a preferred procedure for distinguishing between an original and a copy. However, in order to avoid further confusion, the suggestion that a different color of ink be used has been deleted.

Comment: One comment recommended that the issue of signature authenticity end upon issuance of a patent in order to reduce the need to keep files in storage for long periods of time and to remove the burden on applicants of having to retrieve files from storage.

Response: Once a patent issues, the Office is not likely to inquire into any matters related to signature authenticity of correspondence filed in that patent application. Nevertheless, on rare occasions, a question of signature authenticity might arise after issuance of a patent. Applicants must therefore make their own decisions as to how long to retain originals.

Comment: Two comments questioned the justification for proposed § 1.4(e) requiring originals to be submitted in international patent applications.

Response: Section 1.4(e), as adopted, does not prohibit the filing of photocopies in an international patent application. With regard to facsimile transmissions, Patent Cooperation Treaty (PCT) Rule 92.4, as revised on July 1, 1992, permits the filing by facsimile of certain correspondence related to an international patent application. However, as indicated in §§ 1.6(d)(3), 1.8(a)(2)(iv) and 1.8(a)(2)(vi), the filing by facsimile is not permitted in the following situations relative to international applications for patent: (1) the filing of an international application for patent and (2) the filing of a copy of the i nternational application and the basic national fee necessary to enter the national stage, as specified in §§ 1.494(b) or 1.495(b).

Applicants are cautioned, however, that the Certificate of Mailing or Transmission provisions of § 1.8 do not apply to correspondence filed in an international application before the U.S. Receiving Office, the U.S. International Searching Authority, or the U.S. International Preliminary Examining Authority, regardless of whether the correspondence was filed by mail or facsimile transmission. See § 1.8(a)(2)(5).

Comment: One comment suggested that, in applications filed under § 1.60, the certification that the application and papers being filed are true copies of those filed in the parent application should be excluded from the original signature requirement.

Response: Filing of copies of statements under § 1.60 as well as certifications under §§ 1.8, 1.10, 1.97(e) and 3.73(b) will be permitted. The certified documents referred to in § 1.4(f) are those which are required to be certified by statute (e.g., certified documents under 35 U.S.C. 119).

Comment: One comment questioned whether routine papers could be photocopied with a practitioner's signature thereon with appropriate information being filled in later by another person.

Response: Section 10.18(a) states that the signature of a practitioner, on correspondence filed, constitutes a certificate that the correspondence has been read by the practitioner. Accordingly, the photocopying of papers with a practitioner's signature thereon and subsequently having appropriate information filled in by another person, is not authorized or permitted under the rules.

Comment: One comment questioned whether a docket clerk could use a signature stamp of a registered attorney on a transmittal letter.

Response: Section 10.18(a) states that correspondence filed by a practitioner must be personally signed by that practitioner. Accordingly, use of a signature stamp of a registered attorney by a docket clerk would not be permitted.

Comment: Two comments suggested that the facsimile transmission practice be further liberalized to permit scanned-in signatures to be affixed to facsimile or electronically transmitted correspondence. The personal, handwritten signature would be affixed on a copy of the transmitted correspondence which would be kept by the applicant or his or her representative.

Response: The Office is actively considering acceptance of electronically filed applications and papers related thereto. See "Electronic Filing of Patent and Trademark Applications" published at 57 FR 56537 (November 30, 1992) and 1145 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 378 (December 22, 1992). Until an acceptable program is established, every paper, requiring a signature, filed in the Office, regardless of the manner in which it was transmitted, will have to be a paper which was signed by the person whose signature appears thereon, or be a copy thereof. Scanned signatures affixed to papers which were not personally signed will not be permitted at this time.

Comment: One comment indicated that proposed § 1.5(a) appeared to be contrary to PCT Article 27(1) in that it added the additional requirement not set forth in the PCT of requiring correspondence concerning an international application to identify the international application number.

Response: PCT Rule 92.1 requires any paper relating to an international application to identify the international application to which it relates. In order to ensure prompt and proper association of correspondence with the intended application file, it is essential to use the application number on all papers. The practice (which was not a new one added in this rulemaking) is a mere implementation of the requirement in PCT Rule 92.1 and is not contrary to PCT Article 27(1) as no additional requirement is being placed on applicants.

Comment: Two comments recommended an increase from two weeks to 30 days or one month in the period provided in § 1.5(a) for resubmission of correspondence.

Response: The two-week period provided in § 1.5(a) is to enable applicants to provide the necessary identifying data where such data was not provided during the original submission. This is intended to permit immediate resubmission and no additional time is deemed to be necessary. Extending this period to 30 days would unnecessarily delay prosecution of applications.

Comment: Section 1.5(a) suggests that all letters directed to the Office concerning applications for patents should also state "Patent Application". One comment suggested that § 1.5(a) be amended to replace the restrictive reference to a "Patent Application" to read "identifying the correspondence a relating to a patent application".

Response: In order to make it easier for Office employees handling incoming correspondence to direct mail, § 1.5(a) recommends that letters relating to a patent application should state "Patent Application". The suggestion in the comment was not adopted since uniformity in the reference to "Patent Application" is desirable. Furthermore, this suggested labeling is not a requirement as evidenced by the use of the word "should" rather than "must".

Comment: Section 1.5(a) states that "No correspondence relating to an application should be filed prior to when notification of the application number is received from the Patent and Trademark Office". One comment suggested that the phrase "notification of the application number" was not adequately defined as it was not clear if applicants had to wait for the official filing receipt before information disclosure statements or other papers could be filed.

Response: The phrase "notification of the application number" as used in § 1.5(a) includes any manner in which an applicant becomes aware of the application number. The phrase is purposely broad and is not limited to the mailing of an official filing receipt. Rather, it includes a return post card which has an application number stamped thereon. The reasoning behind the statement in § 1.5(a) that no correspondence should be filed prior to notification of the application number is that correspondence received without an application number is difficult to match with the appropriate file. Further defining the phrase "notification of the application number" in § 1.5(a) is not warranted.

Comment: One comment suggested defining a business day as Monday through Friday, except for Federal holidays in the District of Columbia.

Response: It is not clear which section the comment was directed to, but § 1.6 indicates that no correspondence will be received by the Office on Saturdays, Sundays or Federal holidays within the District of Columbia. Since the language has not created problems in the past, the suggestion will not be adopted.

Comment: Two comments suggested amending § 1.6(c) to indicate the hour of operation of the "walk-up window".

Response: Specifying in the regulations the hours of operation of the "walk-up window" is unnecessary. The hours of operation have been published in Official Gazette announcements and if those hours are changed in the future, the new schedule will published. Should the hours of operation of the "walk-up window" be changed due to unforeseen circumstances (i.e., snow emergency, etc.), a sign will be posted at the "walk-up window" giving an alternate location to deposit correspondence for the Office.

Comment: Two comments requested that the Office reconsider and withdraw the proposal to eliminate the mail drop box at the guard's desk at the Department of Commerce Building in Washington, D. C.

Response: As indicated in the notice of proposed rulemaking, members of the public were occasionally denied access to the drop box at the Department of Commerce. Additionally, the Office lacked confidence in assigning correct dates of receipt to correspondence deposited in the box as a result of instances when correspondence was found outside of the drop box. Further, since there are many ways to file papers with the Office (i.e., certificate of mailing or transmission, Express Mail, facsimile transmission, longer hours at the "walk-up-window"), there is no need to maintain an off-site drop box.

Comment: One comment suggested that the Office publish phone numbers for facsimile machines at various locations, (i.e., Publishing Division, various examining groups, etc.), in order to enable the public to direct their transmissions to a particular location, rather than a central location.

Response: The suggestion has been adopted. See "Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) Information Contacts", 1149 Off. Gaz. Pat. Office 67 (April 27, 1993). The Office will publish in the Official Gazette periodic updates of this list.

Comment: Three comments advocated a further expansion of the facsimile transmission practice to permit transmission of any paper which did not require an original signature. According to the comment, it was difficult to understand why the Office would not permit facsimile transmission of certain papers directly to the Office, but would accept those same papers if transmitted by facsimile to a third party who then hand-delivered the papers to the Office.

Response: The only papers, not requiring an original signature or certification, which the Office will not accept by facsimile transmission are those which, for various reasons, would cause an undue burden on the Office. For example, papers submitted for the purpose of obtaining an application filing date are often rather voluminous difficult to collate and would create inefficiencies in tying up the Office facsimile machines for long periods of time. In addition, there is a time and content criticality to papers filed for the purpose of obtaining a filing date which is not shared by other types of papers. Another example would be drawings submitted under §§ 1.81, 1.83-1.85, 1.152, 1.165, 1.174, 1.437, or 2.21. Experience has shown that the quality of drawings received by facsimile transmission would typically result in an objection by the Official Draftsman. Disputes might arise at that point as to whether the cause of the poor quality was applicant's transmitting unit or the receiving unit of the Office. Hence, the Office will continue to prohibit facsimile transmission of certain papers as specified in § 1.6(d). However, the suggestion has been adopted to the extent that the office will accept, via facsimile transmission, an affidavit showing that a mark is still in use or containing an excuse for nonuse under section 8(a) or (b) or section 12 (c) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1058(a), 1058(b), 1062(c); an application for renewal of a registration under section 9 of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1059; and in an application under section 1(b) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1051(b), the filing of an amendment to allege use in commerce under section 1(c) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1051(c); or the filing of a statement of use under section 1(d)(1) of the Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. 1051 (d)(1).

Comment: Section 1.6(d) states that the receipt date accorded to a paper transmitted by facsimile will be the date on which the complete transmission is received in the Office. Three comments objected to this language by arguing that this practice discriminated against West Coast practitioners and gave an advantage to East Coast practitioners because the West Coast practitioners had only until 9 P.M. to complete a transmission in order to receive the benefit of that day's filing.

Response: The facsimile transmission practice is similar to regular mail practice. Thus, a West Coast practitioner depositing correspondence with the local postal service without a certificate of mailing will receive as a receipt date the date on which the Office receives the correspondence, rather than the date on which the correspondence was deposited. Similarly, a paper transmitted by facsimile will be accorded, as the date of receipt, the date on which the complete transmission was received in the Office, unless the date of receipt is a Saturday, Sunday, or Federal holiday within the District of Columbia, in which case, the date of receipt will be the next business day.

The certificate practice provided in § 1.8, on the other hand, permits the sender to indicate on the correspondence the date of mailing or transmission from the sender's perspective, which date would then be effective to meet a deadline set for response. Use of the certificate of mail or transmission is applicable to correspondence submitted by mail and correspondence transmitted by facsimile. If transmitted by facsimile, the person signing the certificate certifies the expectation that the transmission would be initiated before midnight, local time.

By way of example, a West Coast practitioner preparing a response on the last day of the period for response would have to use the § 1.8 certificate of mailing procedure or the § 1.10 Express Mail procedure, for the response to be considered timely, if the correspondence was sent by way of the U. S. Postal Service. If the practitioner chose to send the correspondence by facsimile on the last day for response and the transmission was started before 9:00 p.m. Pacific time, but was completed after 9:00 p.m. Pacific time, the Office would accord that correspondence a receipt date as of the next business day, which would be after the period for response expired because the Office would have received the correspondence after midnight Eastern time of the last day for response. However, if the practitioner affixed a certificate of transmission to the correspondence sent by facsimile transmission, indicating that the correspondence was being transmitted on the last day in the period for response, then the correspondence would be considered timely filed.

As another example, a transmission started before midnight, Pacific time, on the last day for response and having a certificate of transmission affixed thereto, would be considered timely filed even though the transmission was completed after midnight, Pacific time and was received in the Office the day after the deadline for response.

Comment: One comment suggested replacing "drawings" in § 1.6(d)(4) with "formal drawings" for clarity.
Response: The suggestion has not been adopted because the phrase "formal drawings" does not find support or antecedent basis in sections referred to in § 1.6(d)(4).
Comment: One comment objected to the perceived requirement for a certificate of transmission in order for a facsimile-transmitted document to be accorded a date of receipt.
Response: The receipt date accorded to correspondence eligible for facsimile transmission, whether containing a certificate of transmission or not, will be the date of receipt in the Office of the complete transmission (unless that date is a Saturday, Sunday, or Federal holiday within the District of Columbia, in which case the date accorded will be the next business day). The certificate of transmission, if used, is for purposes of establishing timely filing if the correspondence is transmitted within the period for response but is (1) received in the Office after expiration of the period for response, or (2) lost or (3) not received by the Office. Comment: One comment requested clarification as to what constituted a "complete transmission" as used in § 1.6(d).
Response: The context in which the phrase "complete transmission" was used in § 1.6(d) was to indicate that the transmission was finished. For example, if page 1 of a ten-page facsimile transmission is received in the Office at 11:55 p.m. on a Tuesday and page 10 of that transmission is received at 12:05 a.m. Wednesday, the receipt date accorded to that correspondence will be the date of that Wednesday. (This example assumes that Wednesday is not a Federal holiday within the District of Columbia).
Comment: One comment questioned whether a confirmation in the sender's facsimile machine that the entire facsimile was received constituted sufficient proof that a transmission was complete.
Response: A confirmation by the sender's facsimile machine is evidence that a transmission was made. As such, the confirmation will be considered together with any other evidence presented when questions of filing by facsimile transmission arise. It is therefore suggested that a certificate of transmission be used to enable the sender to rely on the procedures set forth in § 1.8(b).
Comment: One comment requested clarification as to what constituted an incomplete, faulty or illegible facsimile. Also, if an incomplete transmission was sent near the end of the period for response, will the sender be able to rely on the date the facsimile was initially transmitted, or would the sender have to rely on § 1.137 to revive the application if it became abandoned?
Response: If an incomplete, faulty or illegible facsimile transmission is received, that correspondence will be treated by the Office in the same manner that a comparably incomplete, faulty or illegible piece of correspondence would be treated if the correspondence were hand-delivered or mailed to the Office. Whether the application would be held abandoned upon receipt of an incomplete facsimile transmission or whether an opportunity would be provided to complete the transmission will be decided on a case-by-case basis using the same standards that are currently used - for example, for incomplete responses to Office actions, see § 1.135(c).
Comment: One comment indicated that the proposed practice of not accepting papers related to international applications if transmitted by facsimile and the indication that papers transmitted by facsimile, when prohibited, may be disposed of is contrary to PCT practice wherein PCT expressly provides for facsimile transmission of such papers and when not acceptable, an opportunity to correct is provided.
Response: PCT does not mandate acceptance of facsimile transmissions; it merely authorizes their acceptance. See PCT Rule 92.4(h). Additionally, as indicated above, the suggestion that the Office permit facsimile transmission of correspondence relative to an already filed international application has been adopted to a large extent.

There is no provision in PCT to provide an opportunity for correction when correspondence is filed by facsimile in spite of a refusal by a national Office to accept that type of correspondence by facsimile. As with national applications, the Office will attempt to notify senders whenever a facsimile transmission received is of a type which the Office has not agreed to accept by facsimile. Senders are cautioned against submitting such correspondence by facsimile transmission since the correspondence will not be accorded a filing date or date of receipt in the Office.

Comment: One comment suggested changing the phrase "Certificate of Transfer" in § 1.8 to "Certificate of Transmittal" or "Certificate of Sending" because "transfer" typically implies transfer of ownership interest in patents or trademarks.
Response: While each phrase has its own advantages and drawbacks, the suggestion will not be adopted. Nevertheless, in order to avoid confusion, this rulemaking leaves the old "Certificate of Mailing" intact, while adding "or Transmission" to include correspondence filed by facsimile transmission.
Comment: In the notice of proposed rulemaking, it was recommended that the facsimile machine transmission report be retained by the sender along with the correspondence used as the original, as evidence of content and date of transfer. One comment indicated that the correspondence used as the original can only be retained using the older stand-alone type of facsimile machine, since there is no such physical document with the newer in-computer facsimile cards.
Response: Section 1.4(d)(2) provides for submission of copies, e.g., by facsimile, of originals as defined in § 1.4(d)(1). Section 1.4(d)(2) does not provide for transmission of unsigned correspondence from a computer. While § 1.4(d)(2) does not require the sender to retain the original, there may be occasions when the sender will have to document the date and content of a document previously filed by facsimile transmission. The recommendation made in the notice of proposed rulemaking will apply to any situation where a paper document served as the original from which a facsimile was transmitted. If a facsimile transmission by using a computer is desired, a paper copy of the document to be transmitted may be printed out, signed and retained by the sender as evidence of content of the document transmitted. Once signed, if filing of a copy is permitted, the document could be scanned into the computer and facsimile transmitted to the Office.
Comment: In proposed section 1.8(a)(1) published in the Federal Register, paragraphs (i) and (ii) were joined with the alternative "or" to indicate that correspondence could be filed by being deposited with the U. S. Postal Service or transmitted by facsimile. This same section was published in the Official Gazette, by having paragraphs (i) and (ii) joined with the connective "and". Numerous comments, received apparently from individuals who saw the proposed rules in the Official Gazette, objected to the requirement that, in order to receive benefits under § 1.8, correspondence transmitted by facsimile also had to be mailed.
Response: Section 1.8(a)(1) as published in the Federal Register was correct, while the version published in the Official Gazette contained a typographical error. Hence, §§ 1.8(a)(1)(i) (A) and (B), as adopted in this rulemaking, make clear that the certificate of mailing or transmission practice will be applicable to correspondence mailed or sent by facsimile. The Office discourages the practice of having the same papers submitted by both methods as this practice would result in unnecessary duplication of papers and processing requirements.
Comment: One comment indicated that since all facsimile transmissions include the date and time of the actual facsimile transmission, the Office should not require a certificate of transmission, in order to get the benefit of an earlier filing date under § 1.8(a), when correspondence is transmitted by facsimile.
Response: The Office is concerned that some older machines may not print the date and time of the actual transmission. Furthermore, even on the new machines the date and time printed by the sending unit may not always be correct, particularly after a temporary electrical disconnection, change in time, etc. Hence, for purposes of being considered timely filed, if the sender wishes to obtain the benefits of a date earlier than the date the complete transmission is received in the Office, the correspondence must include a certification in accordance with § 1.8(a). A suggested format for a Certificate of Mailing and a Certificate of Transmission under § 1.8, to be included with the correspondence, is reproduced below:

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

The rule changes are in conformity with the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), Executive Orders 12291 and 12612 and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, 44 U.S.C. 3501 et Seq.

The General Counsel of the Department of Commerce has certified to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy, Small Business Administration, that these rule changes will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities (Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 605(b)). The principal impact of these changes is to incorporate existing Office policy into the regulations, permit the filing of certain correspondence without an original signature and permit the filing of certain correspondence by facsimile transmission.

The Office has determined that these rule changes are not major rules under Executive Order 12291. The annual effect on the economy will be less than $100 million. There will be no major increase in costs or prices for consumers, individuals, industries, Federal, state or local government agencies, or geographic regions because most of the changes reduce procedural burdens. There will be no significant effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

The Office has also determined that these changes have no Federalism implications affecting the relationship between the National Government and the States as outlined in Executive Order 12612.

These rule changes contain collection-of-information requirements subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq., which have previously been approved by the Office of Management and Budget under Control Nos. 0651-0009 and 0651-0011. The public reporting burden for these collections of information for Certificates of Mailing or Transmission is estimated to average 0.1 hours each, including the time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collections of information. Send comments regarding these burden estimates, or any other aspect of these collections of information, including suggestions for reducing the burden, to Abraham Hershkovitz, Office of the Assistant Commissioner for Patents, Box DAC, Washington, D.C. 20231, and to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, D.C. 20503 (ATTN: Paperwork Reduction Act Projects 0651-0009 and 0651-0011).

For the reasons set out in the preamble, and pursuant to the authority contained in 15 U.S.C. 1123 and 35 U.S.C. 6, parts 1, 2 and 10 of title 37 of the Code of Federal Regulations are amended as set forth below:

PART 1 - RULES OF PRACTICE IN PATENT CASES

1. The authority citation for 37 CFR Part 1 continues to read as follows:
Authority: 35 U.S.C. 6, unless otherwise noted.

2. In Section 1.4, the title is revised and paragraphs (d) through (f) are added to read as follows:

§ 1.4 Nature of correspondence and signature requirements.

(d) Each piece of correspondence, except as provided in paragraphs (e) and (f) of this section, filed in a patent or trademark application, reexamination proceeding, patent or trademark interference proceeding, patent file or trademark registration file, trademark opposition proceeding, trademark cancellation proceeding, or trademark concurrent use proceeding, which requires a person's signature, must either:

(1) be an original, that is, have an original signature personally signed in permanent ink by that person; or

(2) be a copy, such as a photocopy or facsimile transmission (§ 1.6(d)), of an original. In the event that a copy of the original is filed, the original should be retained as evidence of authenticity. If a question of authenticity arises, the Patent and Trademark Office may require submission of the original.

(e) Correspondence requiring person's signature and relating to registration to practice before the Patent and Trademark Office in patent cases, enrollment and disciplinary investigations, or disciplinary proceedings must be submitted with an original signature personally signed in permanent ink by that person.

(f) When a document that is required by statute to be certified must be filed, a copy, including a photocopy or facsimile transmission, of the certification is not acceptable.

3. Section 1.5(a) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.5 Identification of application, patent or registration.

(a) No correspondence relating to an application should be filed prior to when notification of the application number is received from the Patent and Trademark Office. When a letter directed to the Patent and Trademark Office concerns a previously filed application for a patent, it must identify on the top page in a conspicuous location, the application number (consisting of the series code and the serial number, e.g., 07/123,456), or the serial number and filing date assigned to that application by the Patent and Trademark Office, or the international application number of the international application. Any correspondence not containing such identification will be returned to the sender where a return address is available. The returned correspondence will be accompanied with a cover letter which will indicate to the sender that if the returned correspondence is resubmitted to the Patent and Trademark Office within two weeks of the mail date on the cover letter, the original date of receipt of the correspondence will be considered by the Patent and Trademark Office as the date of receipt of the correspondence. Applicants may use either the Certificate of Mailing or Transmission procedure under § 1.8 or the Express Mail procedure under § 1.10 for resubmissions of returned correspondence if they desire to have the benefit of the date of deposit in the United States Postal Service. If the returned correspondence is not resubmitted within the two-week period, the date of receipt of resubmission will be considered to be the date of receipt of the correspondence. The two-week period to resubmit the returned correspondence will not be extended. If for some reason returned correspondence is resubmitted with proper identification later than two weeks after the return mailing by the Patent and Trademark Office, the resubmitted correspondence will be accepted but given its date of receipt. In addition to the application number, all letters directed to the Patent and Trademark Office concerning applications for patent should also state "PATENT APPLICATION," the name of the applicant, the title of the invention, the date of filing the same, and if known, the group art unit or other unit within the Patent and Trademark Office responsible for considering the letter and the name of the examiner or other person to which it has been assigned.

4. In section 1.6, is revised, to read as follows:

§ 1.6 Receipt of correspondence.

(a) Date of receipt and Express Mail date of deposit.

Correspondence received in the Patent and Trademark Office is stamped with the date of receipt except as follows:

(1) No correspondence is received in the Patent and Trademark Office on Saturdays, Sundays or Federal holidays within the District of Columbia;

Payment of a maintenance fee and any necessary surcharge or the authorization to charge a deposit account must be submitted within the periods set forth in §1.362 (d), (e) or (f). Any payment or authorization of maintenance fees and surcharges filed at any other time will not be accepted and will not serve as a payment of the maintenance fee except insofar as a delayed payment of the maintenance fee is accepted by the Commissioner in an expired patent pursuant to a petition filed under §1.378. Any authorization to charge a deposit account must authorize the immediate charging of the maintenance fee and any necessary surcharge to the deposit account. Payment of less than the required amount, payment in a manner other than that set forth in §1.23, or the filing of an authorization to charge a deposit account having insufficient funds will not constitute payment of a maintenance fee or surcharge on a patent. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

I. Background

Over the past decade, the computer software industry has evolved into a critical component of the U.S. economy. It is presently the fastest growing industry in the United States, with 1992 sales in the three core elements of the software industry -- programming services, prepackaged software and computer integrated design -- accounting for over $36.7 billion of our domestic gross product. The software industry also has created jobs at a remarkable rate; since 1987, employment in the software industry has risen at an annual rate of 6.6 percent and today, the industry employs about 4 percent of the American work force.

The dynamic nature of the U.S. software industry has also served to propel the U.S. firms into a dominant position in the global software industry. U.S. firms hold about 75 percent of the global market for prepackaged software and approximately 60 percent of the world market for software and related services. In 1991, foreign sales of U.S. prepackaged software vendors totaled over $19.7 billion.

Constant innovation has been the key to continued success in the U.S. software industry. As such, it is imperative that our domestic intellectual property systems not only provide an effective stimulus for innovation, but also provide appropriate and effective means for protecting those innovations. Indeed, the continued success of U.S. firms, in both domestic and foreign markets, depends directly on the availability of effective mechanisms to protect software innovations. Without such means, the full value of American innovation cannot be realized.

Intellectual property systems provide the means through which software innovations can be both encouraged and protected. The present framework of intellectual property laws provides three basic forms of legal protection that are most relevant to the development and protection of software; namely, copyrights, patents and trade secret protection. Detailed reviews of each of these forms of protection can be found in the 1992 Office of Technology Assessment report entitled "Finding a Balance: Computer Software, Intellectual Property and the Challenge of Technological Change" (OTA-TCT-527), and in the final report of the Advisory Commission on Patent Law Reform to the Secretary of Commerce (1992). A brief synopsis of these three forms of protection follows.

Software code is protected under copyright law as an original work of authorship. Copyright protection stems automatically from the act of fixation of a work onto a tangible medium. A copyright gives its owner the ability to control the reproduction, adaptation, public distribution, public display and public performance of the software code. Copyrights can be used to prevent others from copying the software program, either through direct duplication or through appropriation of the software's expressive (as opposed to functional) elements. Under U.S. law, copyright owners can also prevent the unauthorized rental of software. Copyright protection cannot be used to prevent the use by others of the functional aspects of software, nor can it be used as a basis for action against independently developed software. In addition, the fair use doctrine under copyright law provides third parties some flexibility in their use of copyrighted works.

Patents can be used to protect processes implemented using software, as well as computer-based systems. The statutory definition of inventions that are eligible to receive patent protection is found in section 101 of title 35, United States Code. This section makes patents available for "any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof." To obtain patent protection, the inventor must apply for protection and proceed through an examination process before the Patent and Trademark Office (PTO). The examination process is used to assess whether the invention for which protection is sought meets all of the statutory criteria for patentability; namely, that the invention is eligible for protection, that it is new, that it is not obvious to a person familiar with the technical field of the invention, and that the invention has been adequately described in the patent application. Patent protection allows the patent holder to preclude others from making, using or selling the patented invention, as it has been defined in the patent claims, for a period of seventeen years measured from the date the patent is granted. Importantly, the party granted a patent must take action to enforce rights provided under the patent--the issuance of a patent does not automatically preclude infringing activity. In addition, the Federal courts have developed a limited exception to liability for infringement for non-commercial experimental use of inventions described in patents. Additional information on the patent process is available in the Manual of Patent Examining Procedure (MPEP), in particular, chapters 600, 700 and 2100.

Finally, certain aspects of software can be protected through use of trade secrecy and contractual licensing agreements. Protection of trade secrets in the United States is governed by state, rather than Federal, law. Trade secret laws typically require the party asserting a trade secret right to take reasonable steps to prevent the public disclosure of the information held as a trade secret. Accidental or other public disclosure of a trade secret will eliminate the protection. Absent such disclosure, the trade secret rights will remain effective indefinitely. Trade secret rights can be enforced against parties that unlawfully obtain the information held as a trade secret.

The focus of the discussions in the three scheduled public hearings will be the use of the patent system to protect software-related inventions. There will be three general subject matter areas presented for discussion:

- Use of the patent system to protect software-related inventions;
- Standards and practices used in examination of patent applications for software-related inventions; and
- Significance of and protection for visual aspects of software-related inventions.

Questions appearing in section II, below, are intended to focus the discussion on each of the topics. They are not intended to discourage individuals from providing written comments on issues they believe should be addressed that are related to the protection of software-related inventions. Written comments on matters not presented below for discussion can be forwarded to the Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks for inclusion in the records of these hearings, but should clearly indicate that the comments are general in nature and not directed at the issues presented for discussion.

Dates and Times for Hearings on Topic A:

January 26, 1994; 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

January 27, 1994; 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Location for Hearing:

San Jose Convention Center

408 Almaden Avenue

San Jose, California.

The question of patent protection for software-related inventions has engendered a significant amount of public debate. For example, concern has been expressed over the appropriate scope of eligible subject matter (e.g., which aspects of software-related inventions should be eligible for patent protection, and which should not). Others have expressed concerns over the effects of providing protection for inventions in which the main distinguishing characteristic is a software component.

Some guidance on the question of patent eligibility has been provided by the Federal courts. First, the Supreme Court has instructed the lower courts to interpret the eligibility standards for patent protection broadly. In Diamond v. Chakrabarty, 447 U.S. 303, 309 (1980), the Court stated:

> The committee Reports accompanying the 1952 Act inform us that Congress intended statutory subject matter to "include anything under the sun that is made by man." The subject matter provisions of the patent law have been cast in broad terms to fulfill the constitutional and statutory goal of promoting "the progress of science and the useful arts". Congress employed broad language in drafting Section 101 precisely because such inventions are often unforeseeable.

Second, the Supreme Court has held that the mere presence of a computer software-implemented mathematical algorithm in an invention does not automatically preclude the invention from being eligible to receive patent protection. Diamond v. Diehr, 450 U.S. 175 (1981). Finally, through interpretation of the exclusions from patentable subject matter under section 101 of title 35, United States Code, the Supreme Court and the lower Federal courts have provided guidance in determining which aspects of software-related inventions are eligible for patent protection.

There are three general categories of exclusions to patent eligibility that are particularly relevant to software-related inventions. The first, and most commonly applied exclusion, is the exclusion of mathematical algorithms, per se, from patent eligibility. For a summary of the law governing this exclusion, and for guidance on how the PTO applies this exclusion in the context of its examination procedures, see "Patentable Subject Matter, Mathematical Algorithms and Computer Programs", 1066 O.G. 5, (Sept. 5, 1989) and "Note Interpreting In re Iwahashi," 1112 O.G. 16 (March 13, 1990). Second, methods of doing business are excluded from patent protection. While no cases have directly applied this exclusion to deny patent protection for software-related inventions, the exclusion is relevant for questioning the patent eligibility of processes that are modeled upon existing business processes but are implemented through a software-based system. See, e.g., Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, Inc., v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, 564 F. Supp. 1358, 218 U.S.P.Q. 212 (D. Del. 1983). Finally, printed matter, per se, is not eligible for protection under the patent laws. This exclusion has relevance in the context of software code "written" onto non-paper media (e.g., magnetic or optical media capable of storing the software code). See, e.g., In re Miller, 164 U.S.P.Q. 439 (C.C.P.A. 1969); In re Jones, 153 U.S.P.Q. 77 (C.C.P.A. 1967).

Within these limits, however, is a spectrum of inventions whose patent eligibility has been questioned. To encourage discussion of what aspects of software-related inventions should or should not be eligible for patent protection, interested members of the public are invited to offer their views on the following series of questions.

1. What aspects of the following examples of software-related inventions should or should not be protectable through the patent system? [Note--these are generalized hypothetical examples of patent claims. They are not intended to prompt comments as to the merits of the process referred to in the claim (e.g., whether the process is well known or obvious to a computer programmer). Instead, comments are desired as to the benefits or drawbacks of granting patents on the invention defined by the claim, presuming it was new and not obvious to a computer programmer.]

   Example A: a mathematical algorithm implemented on a general purpose computer:

   A computer comprising means for causing the computer to generate a signal that varies according to application of mathematical algorithm X to a given numerical input value.

   Example B: a mathematical algorithm implemented on a special purpose computer:

   A computer comprising:

   - means for collecting data;

- means for extracting usable data from the collected data;
- means for processing the usable data through application of mathematical algorithm $X=A^2+B^2$, where A and B are derived from the extracted usable data;

- means responsive to the output of said read only memory.

Examples C-1 and C-2: A computer-readable medium, such as a disk, on which is stored a computer program.

[Note: These examples include references to a computer readable medium as a "tangible" or "physical" embodiment of a software-related invention. The two perspectives presented in the examples differ in how the invention is defined. The first example defines the invention through reference to the actual software object or source code. The second example defines the invention through a narrative description of how the program functions.]

Examples D-1 and D-2: A computer program, per se.

[Note: These examples focus on the computer program, per se, as the invention, without inclusion of a "tangible" or "physical" embodiment. Like examples C-1 and C-2, two perspectives are presented as to how the invention is defined. The first example defines the invention through reference to the actual software object or source code. The second example defines the invention through a narrative description of how the program functions.]

D-1. A computer program of instructions comprising [software object or source code].

2. What impact, positive or negative, have you or your organization experienced from patents issued on software-related inventions? [Note: If providing comments on this question, please provide details regarding the nature of the impact (e.g., the nature of any action taken by or against you or your organization under a patent, the results of the action, and the impact of those results on your activities or operations).]

3. What implications, positive or negative, can you foresee in maintaining or altering the standards for patent eligibility for software-related inventions (e.g., consider possible effects, if any, on doing business or protecting software products in domestic or foreign markets, conducting research, designing software or modifications thereto, etc.)?

4. Does the present framework of patent, copyright and trade secret law:

   (a) effectively promote innovation in the field of software?

   (b) provide the appropriate level of protection for software-related inventions?

   [Note: If responding to this question, please describe the experiences, if any, that you have had with the current system that led you to your conclusions.]

5. Do you believe a new form of protection for computer programs is needed? If so, what would be the desirable characteristics of such protection (e.g., what would be the substantive requirements for obtaining protection, what procedures would be used to obtain or register rights, what rights would be provided and how would those rights be enforced, and how would the new system relate to existing forms of intellectual property protection)? What would be the drawbacks of a new form of protection?

Topic B. Standards and practices used in examination of patent applications for software-related inventions

Dates and Times for Hearings on Topic B:

February 10, 1994; 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m., 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

February 11, 1994; 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.

Different sectors of the software industry have expressed concern over the ability of the Patent and Trademark Office to examine patent applications for software-related inventions effectively. Much of the discussion involves the lack of availability of printed documents, patents, and other evidence of public use of the invention before the application was filed (e.g., called "prior art") that can be used by examiners as a basis for denying the grant of a patent. Factors that have been identified as contributing to this problem include:

- early programming techniques were not well documented or publicly available;
- many software programming techniques were kept as trade secrets and not publicly disclosed;
- locating and obtaining the most relevant prior art is extremely difficult, due to the widely diverse nature of processes that have been implemented by computer software-related systems; and
- software is not documented in a consistent, readily understandable format (e.g., some programs only provide object code, different programming languages are used, source code is not summarized or documented, etc.).

Concerns other than access to and use of prior art have also been cited. For example, some concern has been expressed that the standards used by examiners to assess novelty and/or obviousness over prior art are not reflective of industry standards, with the effect that patents are granted for well-known or obvious software techniques. Others have questioned the closed nature of the examination process, with no public intervention prior to grant, while some have criticized the current options for contesting the validity of granted patents (e.g., the PTO reexamination process or litigation in the Federal courts).

In view of this, the PTO is interested in public input on how to improve the examination process for patent applications for software-related inventions. Interested members of the public are invited to offer comments on the following series of questions:

1. Do patents and printed publications provide examiners with a sufficient and representative collection of prior art to assess novelty and obviousness of software-related inventions? If not, how can existing collections of prior art be supplemented to provide examiners with a complete collection of prior art?

2. Can an accurate measurement of the ordinary level of skill in the art in the field of computer programming be derived from printed publications and issued patents?

3. Should the PTO impose a special duty on patent applicants for software-related inventions to disclose information relevant to their inventions (e.g., one that is higher than in other areas of technology)? [Note: Under current Rule 56 (37 CFR §1.56), all patent applicants are required to disclose to the PTO any information of which they are aware that is pertinent to the invention they claim in their patent application. The standard does not require the patent applicant to search or locate relevant information and present it to the Office for consideration. Failure of an applicant to comply with this requirement can result in the patent being held unenforceable.]

4. Do the standards governing novelty (35 U.S.C. § 102) and obviousness (35 U.S.C. § 103), as applied by the PTO and the Federal courts, accurately reflect inventive activity in the field of software design and development? [Note: If responding "no" to this question, please provide your suggestions on standards that could be used to demonstrate which software innovations should be viewed as "new" and "non-obvious" to a person of ordinary skill in the field of software design and development.]

5. Should implementing a known process, technique, system or method of doing business on a computer be viewed as being novel and non-obvious if, but for the use of software, the overall process, technique, system or method is well known?

6. In what ways can the PTO change examination procedures to assess novelty and obviousness of software-related inventions? [Note: The following questions are not intended to restrict comments on ways the PTO can improve the examination process, but are offered only as a sample of possible changes to the examination process.]

   - Should the PTO require patent applicants for inventions related to software to conduct a search of prior art before filing a patent application, and to include in their application copies of relevant prior art documents along with a detailed explanation that points out how the invention claimed in the application is distinguishable over the supplied references? [Note: This would make the "special accelerated examination" practice described in MPEP § 708.02 VIII standard practice for patent applications on software-related inventions.]

   - Given the difficulties associated with examiners assessing procedures from all fields of technology that have been implemented on a software-based system, should the PTO require patent applicants to prove that their inventions are distinct over the prior art aside from the implementation of the process on a computer?

   - Should the PTO be permitted to establish that a software-related invention is not novel or is obvious using a lower standard of proof than for other areas of technology (e.g., a standard less than prima facie)?

A second topic related to patent examination standards and practices relates to the problem of effectively and meaningfully disclosing software-related inventions in patents and other printed publications. To fulfill their statutorily defined function, patent documents must effectively teach a person of ordinary skill in the relevant field of technology how to make and use the invention that is protected by the patent. With respect to patents on software-related inventions, this means that the patent must disclose enough information to enable the software programmer of ordinary skill to recreate the invention protected by the patent claims. In practice, several concerns have been identified. For example, some have questioned the "disclosure" value of computer program listings that are often included with patent specifications, given the significant administrative problems these listings create for the PTO and the widely divergent manner in which software is written. Others have questioned how best to describe software-related inventions in general, standardized terms (e.g., not through program code listings). In view of these points, the PTO invites public input on the following series of questions regarding disclosure requirements for software-related inventions.

7. What are the most effective ways to describe software (e.g., pseudocode, flowcharts, etc.), and how can they be implemented through the disclosure requirements for patent applications?

8. What difficulties do patent applicants face in complying with existing disclosure requirements (e.g., enablement, description, best mode) for software-related inventions?

9. Should the PTO require patent applicants to conform to a standardized disclosure format for applications filed on software-related inventions ?

10. How should the PTO handle the submission of computer program code listings? Should the PTO require submission of program code listings? Should they require submission of code listings in machine readable format only? Should program code listings be included in patent documents or should they be made available only through a publicly accessible database? What hardships would patent applicants face if these requirements were imposed?

11. Are current rules governing the submission of drawings impeding the effective description of software-related inventions, and if so, what changes should be made? [Note: Rule 96 (37 CFR § 1.96) governs the submission of computer program listings].

12. What difficulties might patent applicants face if they were required to fully satisfy the disclosure requirements of 35 U.S.C. § 112, 1st paragraph (i.e., enablement, description, best mode), without reliance on computer program listings?

Topic C: Significance of and protection for visual aspects of software-related inventions

Date of Hearing for Topic C:

February 11, 1994; 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Location for Hearing:

Marriott Crystal Forum
1999 Jefferson Davis Highway
Arlington, Virginia

This topic addresses the question of design patent protection for computer screen elements (e.g., icons and other user interface elements), and the significance of screen elements in the context of patentability (utility) of software-related inventions.

Protection of the visual elements of software, particularly computer screen displays and images, is very important to the software industry. Recently, questions have arisen whether design patents can be used to provide protection for such elements. As way of background, a design patent provides protection for only the appearance of an article, not for its structural or utilitarian (functional) features. See, 35 U.S.C. §171. This is in contrast to a "utility" patent that provides protection for new, useful and non-obvious products, processes, machines, and compositions of matter. In the context of software, some have argued that design patents could provide much needed protection for the visual elements of screen displays that give programs their distinctive "look and feel."

The question of design patent protection for computer screen displays or images has been raised in a series of recent cases before the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences (Board). See, Ex parte Tayama, 24 U.S.P.Q.2d 1614 (Bd. PA&I. 1992); Ex parte Donaldson, 26 U.S.P.Q.2d 1250 (Bd. PA&I. 1992); Ex parte Strijland, 26 U.S.P.Q.2d 1259 (Bd. PA&I. 1992); Ex parte Donoghue, 26 U.S.P.Q.2d 1266 (Bd. PA&I. 1992); and Ex parte Donoghue, 26 USPQ2d 1271 (Bd. PA&I. 1992). The Board held in each of these cases that screen displays, standing alone, are not statutory subject matter. The Board concluded that, as claimed and described, the designs were merely pictures, and that "a picture standing alone is not protectable by a design patent." The Board's conclusions are consistent with judicial precedent that treats pictures standing alone as not being statutory design subject matter. This precedent points out that the factor that distinguishes subject matter eligible for design patent protection from a mere picture or surface ornamentation per se (i.e., abstract designs) is "the embodiment of the design in an article of manufacture."

Note that, in dicta, four of the Strijland panel members indicated they would have concluded that statutory subject matter was present if certain threshold requirements were met. These are: (1) the specification as originally filed described and claimed the icon as a design for a programmed computer system; (2) the specification included drawings depicting the icon displayed on the monitor of a programmed computer system and (3) the specification explained how the icon was an "integral and active component in the operation of a programmed computer displaying the design."

The Board decisions leave open the question of the threshold requirements for the protection of screen displays. To assist the Office in evaluating how to proceed in light of these decisions, public comments are invited on the following series of questions:

1. Should design patent protection be available for screen displays and other visual elements of computer software (e.g., should the PTO adopt the suggestion of the Board in the Strijland opinion that, if properly presented, screen displays can be statutory subject matter under 35 U.S.C. § 171)?

2. If your answer to 1 is "yes" then:

   (a) Should the Office adopt the threshold requirements for statutory subject matter set forth in Strijland? What alternatives to those requirements would be consistent with current statutes, regulations and case law?

ISS

UMI

(b) Would adoption of the Strijland threshold requirements require more detailed design application specifications in order to meet the description, enablement and best mode requirements of 35 U.S.C. § 112, paragraph 1?

(c) Would adoption of the Strijland threshold requirements affect the patentability of design applications claiming type fonts designs? Are type fonts distinguishable from screen displays for the purposes of 35 U.S.C. § 171?

(d) What is the article of manufacture that can be considered ornamented by icons, screen displays, menus, dialog boxes, etc., and how can these articles be illustrated to comply with 37 CFR § 1.152?

3. What protection would design patents for screen displays provide that is not already provided by copyright and trademark law?

4. Have you or your organization encountered situations where copyrights or trademarks have failed to provide adequate protection for visual elements of software that could have been addressed through use of design patent protection?

5. Are images displayed on a television screen legally distinguishable from the same image displayed on a computer monitor?

6. Does a description in a specification indicating how a displayed image is an "integral and active component in the operation of a programmed computer displaying the design" provide a workable line between statutory and non-statutory design subject matter?

A second facet of the discussion of visual elements of software is the significance of those elements in evaluating whether a software-related invention is deserving of utility patent protection. Specifically, how should visual elements of a software-related invention be evaluated, in the context of the invention as a whole, during examination and for judicial assessments of validity? The focus of this question is not whether the software-related invention should be eligible for protection under the utility patent law (for discussion of this question, see topic A, above). Rather, it is focused on the significance of visual elements of software in determining whether a patentable improvement has been made to a previously known process or article of manufacture. To assist this discussion, consider each of the following questions in the context of two machines, each having multiple hardware components and one software component that guides the operation of the machine. The only difference between the two machines is that the "new" machine employs different visual display elements in its software component.

7. Should the "new" machine be considered "novel" in view of the different visual elements used in the software component?

8. If viewed as making the machine as a whole "novel", should the visual display elements of the "new" machine justify a conclusion that the product as a whole could be non-obvious to a person of ordinary skill?

9. If you answered yes to questions 1 or 2,

(a) Which field of technology should be used to determine the ordinary level of skill for assessing the question of obviousness (e.g., software programming, software interface design, field of technology for the machine, other) ?

(b) How should the visual display elements be evaluated (e.g., ease of use, functions they provide, etc.)?

(c) What aspects of the visual display should be compared and/or considered?

III. Guidelines for Oral Testimony

Individuals wishing to testify must adhere to the following guidelines:

1. Anyone wishing to testify at the hearings must request an opportunity to do so no later than five days prior to the date of the hearing at which they wish to testify. No one will be permitted to testify without prior approval.

2. Requests to testify must include the speaker's name, affiliation (if any), phone number, fax number (if available), mailing address, and the questions in each topic that the speaker intends to address in his or her testimony.

3. Speakers will be provided between 7 and 12 minutes to present their remarks. The exact time allocated per speaker will be determined after the final number of parties testifying has been determined.

4. Speakers must provide a written copy of their testimony for inclusion in the record of the proceedings no later than the last date of the hearings at which they are testifying (e.g., either January 27 or February 11, 1994).

5. Speakers must adhere to guidelines established for testimony. These guidelines will be provided to all speakers no later than two days prior to the date of the hearings.

Reference Collections of U.S. Patents and Trademarks Available for Public Use in Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries

The following libraries, designated as Patent and Trademark Depository Libraries (PTDLs), receive patent and trademark information in various formats from the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. Many PTDLs have on file all full-text patents issued since 1790, trademarks published since 1872, and select collections of foreign patents. All PDTLs have both the patent and trademark sections of the Official Gazette of the U. S. Patent and Trademark Office. The full-text utility and design patents are distributed numerically on 16 mm microfilm, and plant patents on color microfiche. Patent and trademark search systems on CD-ROM (Compact Disc-Read Only) format are available at all PTDLs to increase utilization of and enhance access to the information found in patents and trademarks. It is through the CD-ROM systems that prelminary patent and trademark searches can be conducted through the numerically arranged collections.

All information is available for use by the public free of charge.

In addition, each PTDL offers reference publications which outline and provide access to the patent and trademark classification systems, as well as other documents and publications which supplement the basic search tools. PTDLs provide technical staff assistance in using all materials. Facilities for making paper copies of patent and trademark information are generally provided for a fee.

Since there are variations in the scope of patent and trademark collections among the PTDLs, and their hours of service to the public vary, anyone contemplating use of these collections at a particular library is urged to contact that library in advance about its collections, services, and hours in order to avert possible inconvenience.

SECTION 1.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

The designation "U.S. Cl." appearing in this section refers to the U.S. class in effect prior to Sep. 1, 1973 rather than the international class which applies to applications filed on or after that date. For adoption of international classification see notice in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Jun. 26, 1973 (911 O.G. TM 210).

SECTION 2.—INTERNATIONAL CLASSIFICATION

The short titles associated below with the international class numbers are terms designed merely for quick identification and are not an official part of the international classification. The full names of international classes are given in section 6.1 of the trademark rules of practice.

The designation "U.S. Cl." appearing in this section refers to the U.S. class in effect prior to Sep. 1, 1973 rather than the international class which applies to applications filed on or after that date. For adoption of international classification see notice in the OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Jun. 26, 1973 (911 O.G. TM 210).
